RED CROSS DISASTER
conditions of television, radio and particularly local organizations which have their own radio-telephone systems. Police, organizations, including local police force add much to the efficiency of getting information.
Radar is now used by the hurricane hunters and by the weather bureau in tracking approaching storms. So, altogether, we may rest assured that we will get more reliable information as to the position and probable course of a hurricane than in previous times, and it will be made available to the individual.
Shelter in recent years has been greatly affected by building codes and the inclination to erect more stable buildings than at one time. There are sufficient storm-resistant buildings in the Glades to take care of all those who wish to stay through a storm. The local Red Cross committee on shelter knows where these are and have made arrangements for admission of the public.
The Glades Evacuation Committee have arrangements with the railroads serving the Glades to furnish cars and engines sufficient to move the population as far as is necessary. The movement of trains into the area is left to the decision of the evacuation committee; so the committee makes it its own decision as to what it will do.
Policing the area during the approach of a storm, or during and after a storm is capably handled by Highway Patrol, Sheriff, Constables and local forces in a coordinated plan. Food and clothing when necessary are also under the guidance of a local committee.
Food and clothing, when they become necessary, are also under the guidance of a local committee.
Rules and regulations of conduct during a warning period, during the storm and following are published by the respective disaster committees and should be adhered to.
Cooperation of the public Red Cross Chapter and the Committee will find the Glades ready to receive and send on its way any wandering hurricane, with a minimum of damage to life and property.
Vernon D. Dexter is Belle Glade Disaster Chairman. Bill Allen serves the same job in the South Bay and Bean City. Frank Rozelle is disaster chairman for the Pahokee-Canal Point Area.
The Glades Evacuation Committee is composed of Luther Jones, chairman, Bill Young, Ted Daniels, H. E. (Trouble) Hotard and Frank Dooley of Belle Glade, Paul Rardin, Canal Point, Frank Rozelle of Pahokee, Bill Allen of South Bay, Sidney Crockett of Clewiston and Max Green of Moore Haven.

Sanchez will tell how to obtain "Forage the Entire Year" from practices at the Velda Dairy.
Dr. A. A. McMurray of the State Live Stock Board will deal with mastitis and its prevention.
Two major topics are breeding efficiency and the effects of herd management, which will be discussed by Professor Paul M. Reeves of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.
One session deals with machinery, its selection and care and its increasing place on dairy farms.
Demonstrations will be given of trimming hoofs and dehorning and marking calves.

What I Saw in What I Saw

W. L. Cunningham told Rotarians Friday tales of an 8,000 mile trip he and Mrs. Cunningham made just recently to the West and return.
The verse below gives W. L.'s idea of "What I Saw in What I Saw."

"I SAW THE HAND OF GOD"
We traveled on a long and winding highway,
Which wound through prairies filled with golden grain.
That in the breezes blowing, ever softly blowing,
Waved gently two and fro with soft refrain.

And then the road wound out in barren desert,
Where aught of life one scarcely could discern.
And as one stood there gazing, filled with mystic fantasy,
And hot winds off the sands in crazy eddies spun.

Then up a gentle slope to tops of mountains,
Where one could lightly walk upon a cloud.
Or, sink his hands into a cooling, biting snowdrift.
While cold winds blowing crackled clear and loud.

We followed down the road into a valley.
Where forest green, and misted waterfalls
Did feed the stream that kept the forest green and verdant.
While granite mountains stand watch over all.

Our road then lead around a mighty canyon,
Whose width and depth were awe inspiring scenes.
And as one stood there gazing, filled with mystic wonder,
His mighty vastness human things became.

We saw a forest filled with mighty monarchs,
Whose mighty bows stretched far above the ground.
And took a draught from out the low hung fleecy cloudlets,
While making shade for those who gathered round.

Then went out again upon the desert,
Upon whose space nams foot has seldom trod.
But in all things through which the winding road did take us,
Yes, in it all we saw the Hand of God.

WILL EXPLAINS
to secrecy regarding any and all of its operations. Each week the superintendent, Mr. Hively, received a letter from headquarters in Idaho, Iowa, specifying in detail all operations for the ensuing week. The only information reported to the public was that the farm was experimenting on a "silk film" plant, that the operations were very expensive, that the company had ample capital and that they were not seeking any advice.

It was reported that they had a powerful tractor which could travel on the softest ground. Several of their tractors were experimental, this elicited considerable speculation. It later was revealed that this machine had six foot high rear wheels equipped with four foot wide flat treads. By a system of linkage, several of their tractors would be on the ground at once.

The farm continued to operate here for several years before the tractors were completely destroyed. It was then disclosed that the plantings had been principally of silage, a common crop used by farmers for cheap cordage, and that posed another mystery. Why was it handled so secretly? Dr. Perline had introduced silage to the Glades in the 1830's. It is believed that some experiments were conducted with ramie, as well.

As to the "dog legs" in the highway, Mr. Will related that the first road from the East Coast to the Everglades was planned to have been from Lake Worth west to Okeelanta. This road was paid for but never even started. Next, it was planned to extend the West Palm Beach-Loxahatchee road on the Twenty Mile Bend and from there directly to where the Bolles Canal joins the Hillsboro, east of Six Mile Bend. The road would then fork, one branch skirting Glades and following the Bolles to Okeelanta, the other to terminate in Belle Glade.

This plan was vetoed by Moore and Adams, who would not allow any road to cross their land. They did, however, permit it to traverse the north side, which was the cause of Nine Mile Bend, but at Six Mile Bend it was as close as the road has ever got to Okeelanta.

The final incident in closing the farm involved their speed boat, a beautiful mahogany and chrome trimmed launch powered by a 75 horsepower Van Blerk engine, which was captured by the phenomenal speed

New Trial Asked For Torrence

A motion for a new trial for Gus Torrence, 50, Belle Glade negro, convicted on two of three gambling counts in Criminal Court last July 28, has been filed by Torrence's attorneys, Will Nason and E. M. Baynes. Arguments on the motion will not be heard until the return later this month of vacationing Judge Hugh MacMillan, who presided at the Torrence trial. Torrence faces a one-to-five-year mandatory sentence for keeping lottery records and possessing bolita tickets. He was found not guilty of the charge of operating a lottery. Torrence faces a 90-days-to-one-year sentence or fines ranging up to $5,000 or both on the second charge. He is now free on $1,000 bond.

Negro Terrorizes Area Here With Toy Pistols

Clarence Jones, about 40, a Belle Glade negro, was charged with drunken and disorderly conduct Wednesday afternoon by Belle Glade police lieutenant and V. R. Clark after Jones harassed the neighborhood around Avenue C between 5th and 6th Sts. Clarke said Jones, who lives behind a dry-cleaning establishment in the Taylor building on Avenue C, came running from his apartment waving two guns and cursing women nearby. The workmen, who were rebuilding the Puckett store, were treated by Jones, Clark said. Clark disarmed Jones and learned that the guns were only two cap pistols; however, he said apparently no one knew that fact except Jones while all the screaming and cursing was being done. The fracas lasted about 10 minutes. Bond has been set at $100.

Attending Sunday School Earns Free Pigs For Negro 4-H Club Boys

Seven Negro farm boys of Columbia County who attended Sunday School regularly have received registered Tamworth gilts as a reward for their faithfulness, and 10 other worthy Negro boys with 4-H pig projects have received purebred breeding stock in a pig chain which was started in May 1956.

According to Negro County Agent McKinley Jeffers, a retired merchant of Columbia County, Mr. Leo Gelberg expressed a desire to help Negro boys get started with pig projects. He commissioned Jeffers to buy registered stock from the Florida A & M herd and distribute it among boys in the county.

From two gilts given two rural schools seven girls were farrowed and given to the seven faithful Sunday School attendants and in payment for his young pig each boy must give two pigs from his gilt's litter to two other boys. Thus the chain becomes almost endless. The only hitch so far has been when a gilt farrowed a litter consisting mainly of boys.

Dr. Ralph P. Watt, Jr., has offered to give free veterinary service to all pigs in the chain. County Agent Jeffers has been assisted by J. H. Burgess, vocational agriculture teacher in Richardson High School and by Principal Clarence Tucker of the New Hope rural school.

For next year Mr. Gelberg has offered to supply 100 turkey poulters to any Negro 4-H Club boy in the county who will agree to raise them.

Storage Loan Program Announced By A. S. C. Manager Strickland

The Farm Storage Facility Loan Program is one of the ten active programs in this county authorized by Congress and administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, according to J. W. Strickland, ASC office manager at Lake Worth.

The committee is composed of farmers selected annually by mail ballot and the 1957 election will be held August 30th through September 10th.

Loans for storage facilities are available to farmers from July 1, 1957 through June 30, 1958 at the ASC office, Strickland said.

An eligible borrower is any person who as tenant, shareholder, or land owner-operator, produces one or more eligible crops. Eligible commodities are corn, oats, grain sorghum, soybeans, rice, dry edible beans, dry peas, peanuts, pasture seed and hay seed.

The structure must be of a movable type. The maximum amount loaned shall not be more than 75 per cent of the cost, and the loan is secured by a chattle mortgage on the building.

Feeding practices as followed by five of the state's leading cattle feeders will highlight the program of the fourth annual Cattlemen's Institute to be held at Camp Cleveford, Highlands County, August 20. Each man will give the story of feed production practices and feeding programs used on his ranch. The men are J. O. Pearce, Jr., of Okechobee, Dallas Port of Sarasota, J. O. Carter of Palmetto, G. A. Furgason of Ocala and Richard Kelly of Stuart.

This will be a feature of the morning session which begins at 9:30 and which will be presided over by J. E. Pace, animal husbandman with the Florida Agricultural Service. The other morning feature will be a report by Extension Agronomist

ing. The loan is payable in four annual payments with interest at four per cent per annum on the unpaid balance. The balance may be paid in full at any time without penalty. ## Chiefs Association Holds Meeting Here

More than 20 fire departments in the county were represented at the Friday night meeting of the Palm Beach County Fire Chiefs Association at the Belle Glade Fire Department. The meeting was presided over by Chief E. W. Williams, the president and vice president of the organization. A fire fry with hush puppies was furnished by the Pahokee department following the business meeting.

Principal business was the report of a committee which went to Camp Blinding, Ga. to scout surplus equipment available to fire departments for civil defense. Other items relating to volunteer fire departments which had sprung up on the west end of the coastal area, including those on Military Trail and at Greenacres City were discussed. Marvin L. Lewis, Pahokee fire chief, was in charge of the fire fry.

SB MAYOR KELLEY (Continued from Page One) said Mayor Kelley threatened to suspend Chief Davis, earlier Kelley threatened to pull the strings on Davis if he failed to release former South Bay police man Jack White. The city dropped formal charges against White this week last.

In other Monday action the council heard that E. M. Willis intended to purchase additional equipment for the fire department from Army-Navy surplus equipment at Camp Blinding.

Willis stated the need for a surplus Navy crane, truck and portable power plant. He told the council that expansion and improvement in the department was necessary to provide adequate protection to South Bay. Hydrants are not adequate at present and the only practical supply of water is available when it is pumped from a canal during a fire. He said an overhead tank was needed badly.

A letter from the Palm Beach County Board of Health to the board of health in support of the proposed water improvements for the city. The city has been contemplating a half-million dollars worth of improvements including a self-contained supply system for Lake Harbor and Bean City.

Although not definitely committed, a letter from the U. S. Sugar Corporation indicated that they would probably use a surplus of water.

The board also approved building permits for 240 new houses for G. B. Brown on 9th St. and a $24,000 32-room, CBS apartment building to be built in Crosby sub-division by Felix Stradon.

Approved a tentative plan of a subdivision for William Maso.

Approved the city's bills for payment.

Services Held For T. J. Lassiter Monday

Funeral services for Thomas J. Lassiter, Sr., 80, of Fort Pierce, were held August 12 at 2 p.m. at Yates Funeral Home at Fort Pierce with Rev. F. B. McClure of the Community Methodist Church there officiating. Burial was at Fort Pierce cemetery.

Lassiter was killed Saturday in a head-on collision on Orange Avenue extension near Copek Avenue Road in Fort Pierce. Two teenage boys were reported in satisfactory condition after their pickup truck smashed into the Lassiter auto. The young driver did not have a driver's license.

Lassiter had been a resident of Fort Pierce since 1935 and was a circus buyer at the time of his death. He is survived by his wife, Josephine, one son, T. J., and two grandchildren of Fort Pierce and two sisters.

One sister, Mrs. H. L. Royals, is a Belle Glade resident.

GREENE RELIEVED AT (Continued from Page One) Culver believes that the local prison farm can be the pride of the community and a show place. He hopes to turn it on a business basis and institute a modern penitentiary system whereby the Belle Glade system should benefit greatly through an increased rate of production.
